Opis produktu

Levenhuk Wezzer BASE L60 thermohygrometer is a stylish gadget with an interesting design that measures room temperature and humidity. The device would make a nice gift for fans of smart home technology; it would come in useful in a city apartment, country house, or while traveling. With this device, you will be able to monitor key meteorological parameters, receive real-time information about high humidity or extra-dry air, and get the short-term weather forecast.

As Levenhuk Wezzer BASE L60 is battery powered, it does not require a connection to AC power or cables lying on the floor. Along with the information on humidity and temperature values, the device can also display one of five weather forecast icons. At the top of the screen, there is a clock with large digits visible even from a long distance. This smart device may easily serve as an elegant alternative to the alarm clock on your bedside table. The alarm can be snoozed at the touch of a button - it will beep again in 5 minutes.

Key features:

- Stylish digital device with weather station and alarm clock functions
- Table stand with a wood grain pattern; control buttons are on the back panel
- Information about the room temperature and humidity level
- Charted weather forecast display

The kit includes:

- Thermohygrometer
- User manual and warranty card
